From the Principal's desk

Christian education is interested in teaching truth. This is much more than factual knowledge or mere information. It is the appropriation of knowledge, the interrogation of knowledge within a set of beliefs and the application of knowledge to promote the common good of all creation. Since Jesus is the way, the truth and the life, he expects us to grasp truth within the masses of information that come to us.

But truth often seems elusive. Eugene Petersen says, "Most of the things that are true, you can't see—the whole invisible world of grace, love, justice." Through our school's intentional discipline of Biblical Integration within all curricular material, we seek to reveal that invisible world of deep meaning and significance within every learning experience in the classroom.

Since God is the Creator of the universe, it is quite natural to assume that he is involved and active within his creation, and that as we learn, we should partner with Him in sustaining life, making things better, and seeking restoration and reconciliation. In this way, we become co-laborers with God (1 Corinthians 3:9).

Many public and private schools have no desire to teach an intersection of faith and learning and as a result students are left to figure out meaning with no frame of reference, or worse still, memorise content that is devoid of meaning. Let us pray that our teachers at The King's School will be filled with wisdom to lead our children into all truth, so that they won't need to say, "Somehow, though he moves right in front of me, I don't see him; quietly but surely he's active, and I miss it." (Job 9:11, The Message)
